

Fig. 1

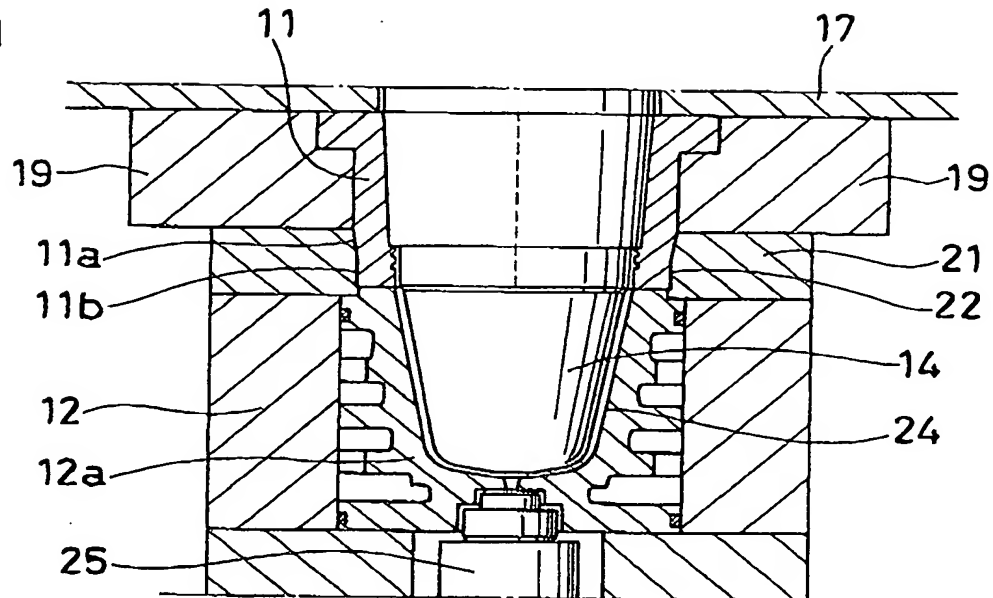

Fig. 2

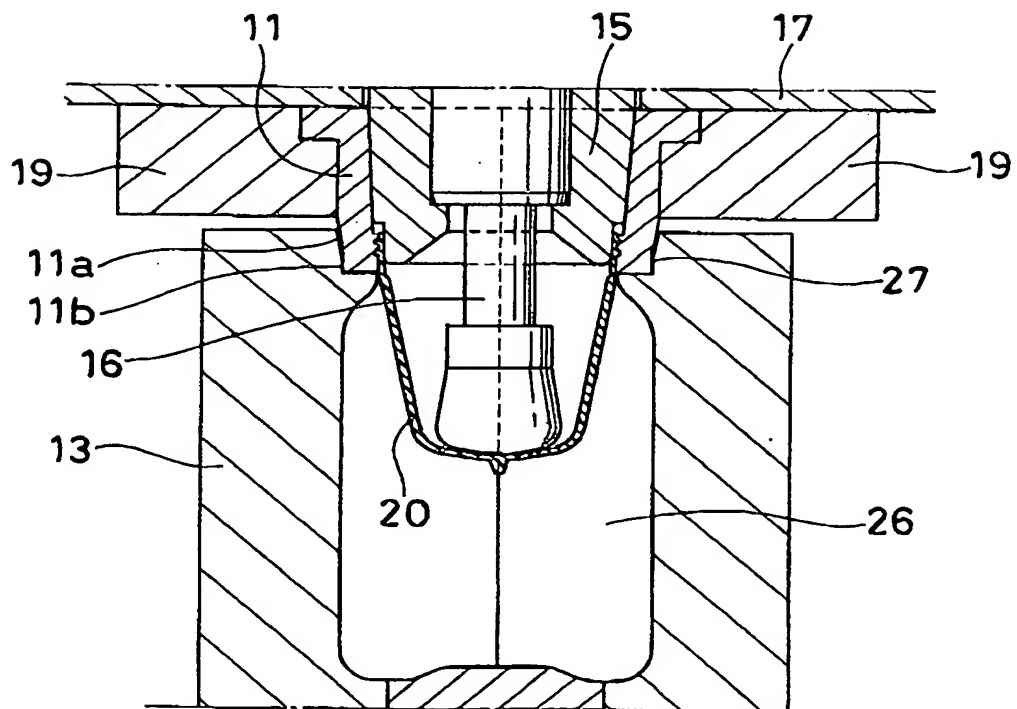

Fig. 1 is a cross-sectional view of a conventional liquid crystal display. It shows a top substrate 17 and a bottom substrate 19. A liquid crystal layer 18 is between them. A pixel electrode 11 is on the bottom substrate, connected to a bus line 11a and a data line 11b. A light guide 20 is below the bottom substrate.

